The Modern Apprentice Is Dwarfed by Specialization.

The manager of a New England machine shop employing 600 hands recently had occasion to engage a new foreman for one department, and be went outside and got his man. AMUSING ERRORS IN PRINT

Examples of What Is Liable to Happen When Compositor Blunders or When the Usually Alert and Careful Proofreader Nods.

Sometimes the proofreader nods, and in this connection the late Lord Goschen told at a public dinner a story of a reader who worked for his (Lord Goschen's) grandfather and who, in answer to a denunciation from his employer, cried:

"Let some other man work at correctness of typography. I despair. My own thoughts often hinder me as they seize and hold the authors otherwise than shey ought to do. It is quite possible that niggling about words and syllables may often go to the wall when my soul cannot tear itself loose from some thought or picture. Errors have been found in sheets which I thought I had worked backward and forward with the greatest particular ity. I read always as it should be." It is when a reader is in this soulful condition that the general public are permitted to read, as they did once in a morning paper not given to humor. that a celebrated politician, in a speech, described some one as "sitting at the feet of the game bird of Birmingham," instead of "Gamaliel." In the same journal, too, the following startling announcement appeared under the heading of "Births:"

NICHOLSON .- On the 12th Inst., at Belton road, Sidoup, the son of Alfred Nich-elson, of a daughter.

In another newspaper a most pathet ic account appeared of a doctor who died owing to having accidentally infected himself while injecting some plague virus into a "gnat." The mystery was solved the next day, when an apology was printed explainting that the word should have been "rat."

"Come over and try some new soup," a lady novelist did not write; "songs" was the word. "It is a sickly kopje of the real article" was perhaps excusable. It appeared in a paper during the Boer war.

These mistakes are curious enough, but they pale into insignificance before some of those that never reach the a compositor in cold type, and he was ance, the Typothetae and Mr. Parry's aggrieved to have to alter it to "Caed concern, is also advocated. mille failthe!" "Brer Fox" was made "Boer Fox"-that was also during the South African war.

On a hot summer's day another tired typesetter turned "The Ides of March" into "The Idea of Work."

In a sermon a celebrated divine was made to say, "And they erected a marine store at the mouth of the sepulcher." "Massive stone" were the cor-

Abbreviations are at times the bane of the compositor, but he had no excuse in setting up; in an account of a Mansion House function, that among those present were "Old Isaacs and Old Trelogr." He should have known that "Ald." was an abbreviation of "Alderman." In the same "take" of copy the "Lord Mayor was received with a crash" (should be "eclat") and was followed by the sheriffs in their "margarine (mazarine) gowns."

"Let the gulled Judy wink" appeared in another first proof, and the proofreader wearily made it the "galled jude wince." "Die, lusty platter!" has quite a transpontine flavor, but the "copy" said "Die Lustige Blatter" (a German weekly paper).

"Pignut of the enunciation" does not seem convincing; "figment of the imag-Ination" is better. "Pettleonts long on Sunday morning is a disgrace" is all right when the first two words are read "Petticont lane."

In a police court assault case the prosecutor was made to say that the Special train will leave Williamstown prisoner had given him "twins." What 7:30 a. m., South Barre 7:45, Barre 8:10, the prisoner really did was to give the prosecutor a "turn" (a fright). "Thu government were suffering from mental aberration," must have been set up by a compositor of the opposition politics. The real charge was "mutual admiration."

"De mortar ivil nice loreum" would trouble a Latin scholar. "De mortula nil nisi bonum" is more correct, "Jim the Pleman" is easily recognizable as the hero of a play, and "Putty Polly," the racehorse, would throw up her pretty head in disdain to see herself so described.

For "a pair of scandals completed by their employers. the costume" read "sandals," and for "Here is indeed a sundial" substitute Minn., are to conduct a crusade against "scandal." He lived in the "hubbuba" should be "suburbs," and, "Call her, ness in that city. Herr, in" is understandable when printed."Caller herrin"."

A well known descriptive writer was startled to read in a rough first proof that he had described the fields surrounding the Derby course as "covered with boots and shoes." He was placated when informed that it had been altered to "booths and shows."

Columns could be filled with the amazing and amusing blunders of the compositor, but here space forbids of more than a final "howler," which is a mlassic in the printing world. "O tempora! O morea!" wrote a leader writer at ten minutes to 1 in the morning. "O Moses, indeed?" exclaimed the proofreader a quarter of an hour later when he "caught and bowled" the compositor who had improved the phrase into "O Tennyson! O Moses!"-Loudon

DEATH BENEFIT FUNDS.

Mortuary Feature of the Printers' Union a Pronounced Success.

In an Interview James M. Lynch, president of the International Typegraphical union, gave some interesting information as to the mortuary feature of the organization.

It seems to be almost an instinct with man to provide for his burial after death. Men have been known-those in poverty-to laboriously collect and eling to a small sum for burial purposes, depriving themselves of the necessaries of life in order to retain this money because of the horror of "filling a pauper's grave." Many associations provide for the interment of their members by a burial fund, and especially is this true of trades unlous-perhaps all or nearly all of them.

It was to be expected that, as intelligent workingmen, the printers would be found in the lead in such a movement. While the greater number of their local associations have burial funds of their own from which to provide for decent interment of their members, the International Typographical union sends out from its home office in the Newton Claypool building, Indianapolis, Ind., to the officers of each subordinate union $70 for each death of a member in good standing reported to it. While this is but a modest amount with which to pay the expenses of a funeral, yet, added to that provided by the local union, it makes a very acceptable sum-in some cities as much as $500-which may be regarded as life insurance as well as a burial fund.

The disbursements in this way of this one parent union from May 1, 1892, to May 1, 1907, amounted to $443,105, and in the year 1907 to $39,270. By this burial fund every member is guaranteed a respectable funeral-not as an act of charity, for each member pays his share-and there is enough left at least to enable his dependents to live until plans can be made for the future. The death rate in the International Typographical union for the year ending May 1, 1906, was 1.14 per cent of the average membership, or a little more than eleven per 1,000. The average death rate since the establishment of the burial fund has been 1.21 per cent, about twelve per 1,000. The death benefit features of trades unions perhaps do not cut much of a figure in the statistics of economics, but investigation will develop that very considerable sums are devoted to this purpose, and it is also greatly to the credit of the printers that it is very rarely that a member of their society or his family becomes a charge on the public, living or dead.

WOULD CRUSH LABOR.

Association of Manufacturers to War on Unionism. The National Association of Manufacturers has sounded the tocsin of war to the death on labor unions. To this end the sum of $500,000 a year is to be raised. A national amalgamation of all the labor crushing organizations, "Cold milk, father" once demanded such as the Citizens' Industrial alli-

Among some of the startling policies proposed by the Parry people are the admission of Chinese and Japanese laborers to work on the railroads and canals; "encouragement" of the merchant marine, presumably through a ship subsidy; no limitation in the number of apprentices; no voice by labor unions in the manner in which employers shall regulate their "business;" protection of employers against "socialistic and anarchistic assaults," and more of the same sort. If such intemperate pronunciamentos are to be taken seriously, their only possible effect will be to create strife. However, they are not of sufficient importance to foment anything more perilous than laughter. Labor unionism has done more to educate and uplift those who toll than any other single force that has appeared. It has come to stay. Employers would do well to meet it in a spirit of peace and fairness rather than with such ill natured bombast as this. - New York

Laborite Curran Goes to Parliament. Peter Curran, Laborite, well known o many unionists in this country as a fraternal delegate to the American Federation of Labor from the British trades union congress, was elected to Federation of Labor from the British a seat in parliament at the recent by election. There were four candidates. and Curran's plurality was 800 in a Liberal stronghold.
